Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 27-55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for an accessory tray for a handheld drill, does not reasonably provide enablement for a detecting device (claims 27-35 and 50-55) or a measuring device (claims 36-45). The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to construct the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

There is absolutely nothing in the specification or originally filed claims describing any association of a detecting device or a measuring device with the handheld drill, much less how to construct it. Inclusion of a level to aid in orienting the drill is not considered to be a detecting device or a measuring device.
